HONGKONG, OCTOBER 23RD, 1869.

Not only the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce, but the whole of the mercantile community in China, are indebted to Mr. F. B. JOHNSON, for the elaborate and singularly able memorandum which he has laid before the Chamber on the subject of transit Dues. Those who have watched the discussion which has been going on during the last three years with respect to the nature of foreign commerce with China, must have been struck by the manner in which, notwithstanding the large variety of topics that has been embraced, the arguments have become gradually concentrated upon the Transit Dues question, which by the admission of all parties, is the really weak point in the existing trading relations with this country. It would perhaps be impossible to embody in a more forcible form the merits of this subject than has been done in Mr. F. B. JOHNSON's memorandum. It states the nature of the case clearly, and, considering its extended bearing, also concisely; and it advances arguments of great cogency to show that it is essential that other steps be taken by foreign powers to guard their trading interests, than relying upon the very doubtful safe-guard of an Imperial Edict, and, on the strength of one being issued, consenting to an addition of 2½ per cent. to the burdens already placed upon foreign trade.

In what may be termed the introductory portion of the memorandum, Mr. F. B. JOHNSON argues, that by Art. X. of the Nanking Treaty, and Art. XXVIII. of the Tientsin Treaty, it is clearly established that an ad valorem duty of 2½ per cent. was to be taken, as a fair commutation of all inland duties. This argument, which has been maintained in these columns, and in those of such northern papers as have devoted special attention to the subject, is one which it is impossible to gainsay; and it is hardly to be supposed that the ingenious, but eminently disingenuous grounds which the Chinese, according to Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK's despatches, have taken up, that transit passes will not cover local, but only barrier dues, can possibly be sustained. This point has already been so elaborately argued that it is needless now to re-open it. It must be obvious to every one that, if this principle be admitted, any arrangement made with respect to the Transit Dues must be of none effect, as the irregularity which now presses so heavily upon foreign trade will be only transferred from the "Transit" to the "Local" Dues, and the same trouble will, mutatis nominibus turn up again within six months after an arrangement has been come to on that basis.

The idea which the memorandum sets forth with respect to the Earl of ELGIN's intention in regard to the Transit Due clause is, that he believed the right to pay 2½ per cent. in commutation of the taxes, in conjunction with the right of residence, would compel the Chinese Government to adopt a regular and fixed scale of internal duties upon that basis. This supposition is extremely probable; but, whether it is strictly correct or not, there can be no doubt that the main intention of the Transit Dues clause was as set forth in the text itself, to prevent irregular levies, and not, as has been erroneously argued, in any way to interfere with the right of the Chinese to levy fixed reasonable duties. At the same time, it to be borne in mind that, although the Chinese like any other nation, possess the undoubted control over their own revenue generally, there is as no doubt that quasi foreign goods, they have abandoned such right to a certain extent, that is to say, they must be held, in stipulating that foreign goods should enter and leave the country on payment of fixed Import and Export duties together with certain transit duties, to guarantee that the levies, other than Tariff duties, whatever their name may be, shall be such as can be shown to be reasonable. To hold that indefinite internal duties, whether local or transit, could be levied, would be obviously to render the whole Tariff useless; and, to avoid any question as to what might be considered reasonable internal duties, the 2½ per cent. commutation seems to have been decided upon. However this may be, it is obvious that no future stipulations with respect to these dues will be of any use, which is not distinctly understood to be in commutation of all and every due upon foreign goods in addition to the Tariff and Transit duties. The proposal which has been made by the Mixed Commission at Pekin, if the Imperial Edict could be taken as any real guarantee, would meet this end; but, as is very pithily observed in the memorandum under notice, it passes the limits of credulity to take for granted that the swarm of unpaid officials, who now settle on the industry of the country, will be prevented by such an Edict from making illegal exactions, when they have bought the right to a post established for the express purpose of generally taxing goods in transitu. Under these circumstances it is suggested that some other remedy must be sought; and it is considered by Mr. F. B. JOHNSON that it is to be found in the legalised application of Transit passes to all articles of foreign trade, by whomsoever owned, the test of foreign trade being its subjection to a foreign tax.

Is the official at the Supreme Court, who is responsible for the extraordinary prelude to the criminal sessions yesterday, aware that the name of McDonald is about as common as that of Smith, Jones, Brown, or Robinson? If so, it is impossible to conceive how Alexander McDonald could be called upon to explain why he did not receive a communication addressed to J. McDonald. If he had received and opened it, there might be very good reason for complaint, but it is certainly rather astonishing to find a man formally called upon by a Court to explain why he did not open a letter addressed to some one else. It might perhaps be as well if such explanations were sought in a simpler manner. No doubt, Mr. Alexander McDonald's reply that J. McDonald was not in the Colony, as, His Lordship observed, "quite satisfactory"—that is, as far as Mr. McDonald's conduct was concerned; but it can scarcely be considered that so ridiculous an ending of so tremendous a performance was quite so satisfactory as respects the dignity of the Court.

A Home paper contains the following:—

"A vigorous effort is being made to check the horrible language often heard in the streets."

Surely if this can be done at home, the street cries could be put down in Hongkong.

A correspondent suggests that Ladies should be invited to the proposed dinner to Admiral Keppel. The British Community, in whose name the dinner is to be given, certainly consists of more than one sex, and no doubt no one would feel more honored by the presence of the Ladies than the gallant Admiral himself.

The weather in England during the past summer seems to have been almost completely what people are used to in the north of China, namely, a burning summer suddenly changed almost to cold weather. A London paper writing on the subject says:—

"We have leaped suddenly out of a burning summer into a cold and dreary autumn. It is most melancholy to walk through the parks and to see the havoc which has been wrought by the easterly gale."

The description is strongly suggestive of what occurs at the northern ports on the change of the Monsoon.

Sir Rutherford Alcock may be expected to pass through Hongkong early in December, on his way home.

The Chinaman found guilty at the special sessions of murdering Mr. Carleton, mate of the British bark Nile, is to be executed on Monday morning, at six o'clock.

The Kelso, under the command of Captain Vowell, was taken out of the water on the 20th instant, by McDonald's Patent Slip at West Point. The whole of the carving and cradle has been reconstructed since the accident to the Celestina, and every part is reported in excellent order.

It is stated that it was under contemplation in Shanghai to have the new church opened on the arrival of the Duke of Edinburgh; but that the idea had to be abandoned in consequence of the contractor not having been paid the balance of the money due to him, and forbidding the church to be opened, whereby he would lose his lien upon it.

It will be probably recollected that some time ago Mons. de Tranquale, the French Consul at Canton, arrived here from that port, under circumstances which caused some talk in Hongkong. The matter was of so painful nature that allusion was not made to it; but it is not right in the interests of the public, and of those immediately concerned, that a subject should be thus allowed to lie ignominiously buried. The facts of the case are simply that Mons. de Tranquale unfortunately was in such a state of mind, that it devolved upon Mons. du Chesne, French Consul in this Colony, to take steps in the matter; and, in accordance with the decision of the Supreme Court, to whom it was referred, Mons. de Tranquale was placed under Mons. du Chesne's charge, and was on the 9th Sept., sent off on board the steamer Hooghly to Saigon, to take passage from there on board the French transport Mitis. A telegraphic despatch has been received by Mons. du Chesne from the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, instructing him to take charge of the Consulate at Canton until a new consul be appointed thereto.

TEA.

The new season's shipments of this article can hardly be said to be presented in any new light by the advices to hand by the mail. The only feature of interest, in the home market, has been the arrival of the Nestor, from Shanghai, and the dispatch of a portion of her cargo. The finest choice Ningchows and Oonfahs were readily taken at full prices, leaving handsome profits to importers, but the bulk of the cargo, consisting of medium to fine Oonams and Oopacks, met with much less satisfactory sale, as the previous arrivals of the same description.

The market for these teas has declined fully 3d. to 4d. per pound from opening rates, and sales can only be made at a further sacrifice. The larger portion of the cargoes per Agamemnon and Red Kings, are still in importers' hands, and many parcels already show considerable losses on invoice cost. Auctions of new teas without reserve are again advertised which cannot help tending to a further depression of the market, and the action of the respective importers cannot be too severely condemned.

Far from doing any good for themselves, they also ruin the market for their neighbours, not only for the time being, but probably for months to come.

It is some slight satisfaction under the circumstances to foster a hope that tea exporters during 1870-71, may, perchance, find themselves freed from similar co-operation. The story of the pitcher and the well has of late years been constantly inapplicable to the tea trade, but there is a growing conviction that matters must at length find their level, even in a "sink of iniquity."

By telegram, confirmation of the news already previously to hand via Kinshan, of the unfavorable nature of the Achilles outturn, has been received, but as this steamer carried notoriously the worst selection of the first crop, shippers of Kaisowa need not be disheartened, the clippers will probably tell a different tale.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

BEFORE HON. J. PAUNCEFOTE.

The sessions were continued yesterday morning, with the following jury:—Messrs Hughes, Blackwood, Brandt, Dale, Wheeler, McNulty, and Hock.

Mr. Alex. McDonald was called upon by the Court for an explanation of his conduct in refusing to receive an official communication sent to him from the Court. It appeared that the name of J. McDonald had been twice called as a juror during the present sessions, and each time no appearance had been put in. A fine was accordingly imposed, and notice sent to his place of business. This document was received by Alex. McDonald, who told the coolie that J. McDonald had gone home. The coolie returned with this answer, and was sent a second time, when a similar reply was returned. For some reason a summons was issued on Thursday evening, commanding Alex. McDonald to appear.

His Lordship remarked that Mr. McDonald's conduct was very singular, and not such as would be expected from a person who was anxious to assist or forward the administration of justice. As at present advised, he understood that McDonald had twice refused to take the document. He wished to hear what explanation there was for this.

McDonald explained that J. McDonald was not in the Colony, and had not been for some time. He did not know where the letter came from, but he merely told the coolie that the person to whom it was addressed had gone home.

His Lordship remarked that this explanation was quite satisfactory.

THE SOW KEWAN MURDER

The four Chinamen charged with the murder of Sergeant Mahony, were arraigned yesterday and charged, to which they pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Hayllar volunteered to defend the prisoners.

In opening the case for the prosecution, the Acting Attorney-General after stating the facts of the midnight attack at Sowkewan, the wounding of the two Indian constables, and the killing of Sergeant Mahony, went on to state that although the 2nd, 3rd and 4th prisoners were merely of the party that made the attack, still the law recognized no distinction in murder between the person or persons who actually struck the blow, which might have proved fatal, and those who were in company with such person. There was no direct evidence to be brought that any one of the four prisoners actually struck the deceased man, but it would be proved that they were all of a party, who were in pursuance of a common and unlawful object, and that they were all armed. One question, therefore, for the jury would be, were the prisoners concerned in carrying out the common object with which the party landed and went to Sowkewan. He then went on to refer to the evidence he was about to bring before the jury. The first and principal witness who would be produced was an accomplice, a man, named Tung-pak-foo, who was on board the junk of which the prisoners were part of the crew, and who also took part in the attack. No doubt much would be made by the learned counsel, who had volunteered to defend the prisoners, of the character of this witness. It was not denied by the prosecution that he was anything else than a common pirate. They did not deny that he was anything else than a disreputable character. He was, in fact, a man who, being acquainted with all those engaged in piracy was hired to go on board these stone junks, and sail with them, in order to prevent them from being attacked by pirates. He was in short a sort of protector against piratical attacks. It was not denied that he was a man of disreputable character, but he put it that a man who was the consort of pirates, who was likely to be concerned in an attack of this kind, must necessarily be a man of bad character; from such a quarter, no other kind of person could be looked for, and therefore, in considering his evidence it must be entirely a matter of credibility so far as the jury were concerned. Now, in considering the credibility of this witness, the jury must take with it, the corroborative testimony which would be brought forward, and after carefully weighing this, if they found that there was such a body of corroborative testimony, as to make the testimony of Tung-pak-foo of any value, and as to lead them to believe his story as true, then it was within their duty to find the prisoners guilty of the charge on which they were now arraigned. Now, the story of this witness was substantially as follows: He was in the month of April last sailing on a stone boat named the Yee-lee, of which the first prisoner was master, and the other three men were part of the crew; in a sort of protector against piratical attacks. On the evening of the 14th of April the Yee-lee left Kowloon, bound for Saiwan. The wind was very light, and they drifted about until the 15th when they anchored in Sowkewan bay, and on 16th running Saiwan. About the second hour of the night of this day, the first prisoner ordered all hands to go on shore, for the avowed purpose of attacking the Sam-lee shop at Sowkewan. The usual crew of the Yee-lee consisted of seven men, but at two places, called Peak-chow and Ping-hoi, from whence the junk originally came before she reached Kowloon, twenty-six Chew-chow men, said to be passengers, were taken on board, and were on board when the junk arrived in Saiwan Bay. In obedience to the orders of the first prisoner, all hands went on shore, being taken in two sampan loads, except two men named Lee-a-qui and Low-pin-shan, and three of the Chewchow men. Arms, spears, and stink pots were put into the boats. The prisoners were all among the party who went on shore. This witness would then describe the approach to Sowkewan, how the party separated into two divisions, in one of which was the witness, and the other the first prisoner, and lead on of the whole affair; how the division in which the witness was, attacked and wounded the two Indian constables, and the one in which was the first prisoner attacked and wounded the European sergeant. How they heard a whistle sounded which seemed to frighten all hands, and how they all immediately lit their torches and fled towards Saiwan, and went on board the Yee-lee. Now, much might be made by the defence of the sampan men being taken in the junk in getting from Kowloon to Saiwan, but he thought this very unimportant fact, the jury would look at with a good deal of care, for the reason that it went to show how far the man Tung-pak-foo's evidence was true. If this was in accordance with truth, it would have been more than likely that the facts would have been the most creditable, and without the chance of any suspicion being attached thereto? It would be proved that the first witness was well known to the police in Sowkewan, that he was in the habit of trading between that place and Canton. It was very likely, therefore, that both himself and crew should be well acquainted with the town and the situation of the shops and roads, and of the approaches to the town. Now, if the jury could find against the prisoners, the members of this party, described as having gone on shore, then they would be justified in finding them guilty of murder. The next class of corroborative evidence, which would be brought forward would be that of two portions of the crew of the Yee-lee, who remained on board, while the attacking party had gone on shore. It would be proved that when the attacking party came back to the beach in Saiwan, they hailed the junk, and asked then the sampan should be sent. They came on board. The sampan was sent, after as the previous arrivals of the same description.

The market for these teas has declined fully 3d. to 4d. per pound from opening rates, and sales can only be made at a further sacrifice. The larger portion of the cargoes per Agamemnon and Red Kings, are still in importers' hands, and many parcels already show considerable losses on invoice cost. Auctions of new teas without reserve are again advertised which cannot help tending to a further depression of the market, and the action of the respective importers cannot be too severely condemned.

Far from doing any good for themselves, they also ruin the market for their neighbours, not only for the time being, but probably for months to come.

It is some slight satisfaction under the circumstances to foster a hope that tea exporters during 1870-71, may, perchance, find themselves freed from similar co-operation. The story of the pitcher and the well has of late years been constantly inapplicable to the tea trade, but there is a growing conviction that matters must at length find their level, even in a "sink of iniquity."

By telegram, confirmation of the news already previously to hand via Kinshan, of the unfavorable nature of the Achilles outturn, has been received, but as this steamer carried notoriously the worst selection of the first crop, shippers of Kaisowa need not be disheartened, the clippers will probably tell a different tale.

LATER TELEGRAMS.

The subjoined was issued as an "Extra" yesterday:—

The following telegrams, being the continuation of a series, of which the publication in the Daily Press alone, (a refusal having been made by other journals to pay the necessary cost), was commenced early in September, are issued in the form of an "Extra" to this paper, in order that the subscribers to it may continue to be placed in possession of the latest news at the earliest possible moment. The somewhat unusual mode of issuing these telegrams, demands a word of explanation. It is necessary to state that it is adopted simply on account of a very unexpected reconstruction of the nature of a business arrangement which has been made in another quarter with the consent of Messrs. Reuter's Agent, given evidently under a misconception with regard to the arrangement made by his Predecessor. Much as the Lessee of this paper objects to obtruding upon the public any details connected with the business of the office, he feels compelled to state that the understanding with reference to these telegrams was that they should appear in the ordinary issues of the paper; and that a deviation from this plan is only made on the grounds of the absolute necessity of preventing an arrangement for placing the subscribers to the Daily Press in possession of the latest intelligence, which was made at some trouble and expense, being rendered abortive, by an unwarrantable departure, on the part of another journal, from the distinct and unmistakable meaning of the terms agreed to with respect to the telegrams.

forever. He contended that the legal evidence was clear, that no charge of abduction could be sustained. The prisoner might have done all that was alleged without having any desire or intention to debauch the girl. The evidence of Hales had been highly coloured. He had sent a long letter to a paper, and it seemed to him that the case had been got up to clear the streets from some licentious person who might have been seen to act in an improper manner.

Mr. Knox said so much had been undone by the witnesses that he could not keep the case from a jury. The prisoner, it appeared, had met the little girl, had offered to take her to the theatre, buy her a dress, and make her pretty presents, if she would go into different places with him. Could it be contended that the prisoner's intentions were not improper? He was not certain a jury would convict—it was for them to determine whether the prisoner intended to debauch, or made arrangements to debauch the girl. The charge of assault was weak, but he had no doubt the law justified him in sending the case for trial.

Mr. Poncione said that being the magistrate's determination, he would not go into the defence. He hoped the magistrate would take reasonable bail.

Mr. Knox fixed the bail at two sureties in £200, and the prisoner in £400.

Mr. Hales wished to state that it was an error to make him say in the report that he was connected with the Morning Post. He was connected only with the Morning Star, in the reporting and advertising departments.

DESPERATE SUICIDE.

A melancholy and deliberate suicide has been committed in Mary-street under circumstances which leave no doubt that the unfortunate gentleman who has been the victim of his own destruction, was incited to the commission of the crime by the jealousy of his wife. The gentleman in question is Mr. Arthur Pouncey, aged 30, proprietor of Pouncey's Private Hotel, Holles-street, Cavendish-square, a most distinguished member and one of the best shots of the St. George's Rifles. From the evidence taken before Dr. Hardwicke, deputy coroner, at the inquest held at the hotel, it appeared that the inmates were suddenly alarmed by hearing a report of firearms proceed from Mr. Pouncey's private room, and on going to ascertain the cause, Mr. Pouncey was discovered lying on the floor with his head literally blown to atoms, and his rifle lying by his side. He had, it was believed, placed the muzzle of his rifle, loaded with ball cartridge, to his mouth, and discharged the trigger with his foot. A letter, of which the following is a copy, had been found in deceased's room:—"Pouncey's Private Hotel, 3, Holles-street, Cavendish square, London, Aug. 23, 1869. My dearest Louisa,—May God bless you and protect you, and may He also bless and protect my dear children! I have never wronged you either by word or deed, and I cannot longer endure your suspicions. I have from time to time borne up against it, but your constant insinuation of distrust is more than I can bear. I have never broken my marriage vows, God knows! I have asked him to forgive me all my sins. Pray, dearest, bring up our dearest children to the right way, to fear God and worship His holy name; and may we all meet in Heaven, is the sincere wish of your sincere, faithful, and affectionate husband, Arthur Pouncey. P.S.—My best love to my poor sister Susan, and please to tell my brother John that I forgive him as I wish to be forgiven." The jury returned a verdict of "Temporary insanity."—Times.

A frightful case of immolation of a human being in one of those Spanish bull fights patronised by the crown, has occurred at Juras, in the Gard. One of the bulls tossed a man, killing him in an instant, and ran about the circus with his entrails twisted about the horns. Nobody thought of stopping the performance, which went on for three hours afterwards.

CLERICAL SCANDALS IN EUROPE.—A Belgian journal, the Flandre, says that in consequence of the number of clerical scandals which are constantly occurring throughout Europe, it has not space enough, as a mere weekly paper, to report them. It considers, however, that they ought to be reported, and under these circumstances it announces that it shall henceforth publish a supplement every week, devoted entirely to this subject, but intended only for men to read. It will take care, it adds, to give some of the reports in Latin, as a language which is privileged in such matters.

THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA.
MARAVILLA COCOA.
Sole Proprietors—TAYLOR BROTHERS, London.
THE COCOA (or Cacao) of MARAVILLA is the true THEOBROMA OF LINNÆUS. Cocoa is indigenous to South America, of which Maravilla is a favoured portion. TAYLOR BROTHERS having secured the exclusive supply of this unrivalled Cocoa, have, by the skilful application of th ir suitable principle and elaborate machinery, produced what is so undeniably the perfection of prepared Cocoa, that it has not only secured the preference of homœopathic and cocoa-drinkers generally, but many who had hitherto not found any preparation to suit them, have, after one trial, adopted the Maravilla Cocoa as their constant beverage for breakfast, luncheon, &c.
"A SUCCESS UNPRECEDENTED."
See following Extract from the Globe of May 14, 1869.
"Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoas, but no doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of "Maravilla" Cocoa. Adopting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which surpasses every other Cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicacy aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocoa above all others. For Homœopathic and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage."
Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor Brothers' Original HOMŒOPATHIC COCOA and SOLUBLE CHOCOLATE.

AND PATENTS OF THE ECOLLMAN BOOT.

Officers in Her Majesty's Army and Navy should Purchase

THE FLEXITRA BOOT.

Especially adapted for the use of Cavalry Officers.

THE FLEXURA or SPRING WAIST BOOT, for both Ladies and Gentlemen, gives an elegant appearance and symmetrical form to the foot, improving the shape of the instep, with increased comfort in wearing. ITS OTHER FEATURE is an elastic steel spring, inserted in the waist of the boot, causing it to fit more closely to the bottom of the foot than the ordinary boot. It is highly recommended by the Medical Faculty as a support for flat feet and weak ankles, while at the same time it improves the appearance, and develops the shape of a well formed foot by its spring elasticity. It is also completely successful in remedying uneven wearing, and possesses the important advantage of never losing its shape.

THE FLEXITRA BOOT is also invaluable in supporting and training the foot of young people.

THE FLEXURA SPRING can be inserted of any strength, either light or strong, to suit all feet.

MANUFACTURERS OF THE ELEVANS BOOT.

THE ELEVANS BOOT is particularly valuable to Ladies and Gentlemen of short stature; it elongates the wearer, improves the instep, and the wearer is made taller without having unusually high exterior heels.

HUNTING, SHOOTING, and FISHING BOOTS of all descriptions.

MANUFACTURERS OF PATENT PANTS CORUM BOOTS and SHOES for tender feet.

Ladies and Gentlemen waited upon at their own residence in town and country for orders, or if wanting abroad, can be supplied with the Flexura Boot by forwarding one of their old boots, with an outline of their foot on paper, with the order by post. Lasts and Boot Trees made to order.

FIFTY YEARS' USE OF THESE MEDICINES

(Morison's Vegetable Universal Medicines)

By the public has proved their efficacy and virtues, and the truth of MR. MORISON'S system as to the cure of disease. Being composed only of vegetable matter or medicinal herbs, they are harmless to the most tender age or weakest frame, under every stage of suffering: the most unpleasant in their operation; and the most certain in searching out the root of any complaint. Besides cleansing the great highway of the body—the bowels—they act copiously on the kidneys, the liver, and the skin. A sense of relief in the whole system is felt very shortly after they have been taken,—the blood flows more evenly, the heart beats more regularly, and sleep is given to those long deprived of it. The medicines consist of three sorts. No. 1 MORISON'S PILLS; No. 2 MORISON'S PILLS. In boxes at 7½d., 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. (6d.) family packets, 11s. each; also the Vegetable Aperient Powders, 1s. 1½d. per box.

MORISON'S UNIVERSAL OINTMENT

Is recommended as the best external application in all cases of Wounds, Cutaneous Eruptions, &c. In Pots at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each.

The above Vegetable Universal Medicines are sold by the Hygeian Agents, and all Medicine Vendors.
